ALL RISE

FOR THE CLIMATE

FOR THE RULE OF LAW

FOR OUR FUTURE

L'AFFAIREKLIMAATZAAK

FROM RULING TO ACTION

With more than 58,000 citizens, Klimaatzaak took the case to court to remind public authorities of their responsibility to tackle the climate crisis.

In 2023, the court ruled in our favour. The Belgian authorities were found liable and ordered to implement effective climate policies. Greenhouse gas emissions must be reduced by 55 percent by 2030.

The ruling is not being implemented. On the contrary: emissions are rising again and policy ambitions are falling. Meanwhile, we are losing precious time and the consequences of the climate crisis are becoming more severe and deadly. Yet we know what we must do to combat the climate crisis, to pursue socially just climate policies that are better for everyone.

That is why we are rising up. Week after week. No longer just in court, but also on the streets and on social media. We are rising up to demand political accountability and action. We are rising up to ensure the climate ruling is implemented. Because a democratic constitutional state only exists when court rulings are respected. We are rising up for a healthy future for everyone.
